

MOVING UP

Congratulations to Emily Forloines.

Please join me in congratulating Emily Forloines on her promotion to Conference Sales Manager

Emily joined the Sales team back in September of 2017 as a Conference Coordinator. Since that time, Emily has proven herself to be an invaluable part of the Sales Team, and the resort as a whole. As we headed into the pandemic, she rode out the furlough and eagerly awaited her return to the team.

The Conference world has rebounded from the pandemic and is stronger than ever, due to Emily's grit and determination. Her drive to provide the best possible events for our conference clients has prepared her for her new role as our Conference Sales Manager. Emily was a one-person team as we grew out of the pandemic and honed her skills and connections around the resort. During this time, she also began taking on a sales focus to help capture some of our repeat groups, whom she has come to know well over the years.

In Emily's new role, she will be the driving force behind bookings of our Conference Sales efforts, while also overseeing the Conference Coordinator team. She will continue to evolve her team-building skills as she grows into this new role for the resort.

Congratulations! I wish you the best and know that you will be tremendously successful in your role.
